Are you looking for satisfaction? Do you go to church and yet come away still longing for more? Or, do you not go to church because you just don't get it?

Read this book, it will help you.

"You want answers? This book answers the core questions about life, faith and church. A must read for those who grew up in the Catholic church."

-BOB CHERRY

Senior Minister, Northeast Christian Church

"Tim Lott describes his experience of being Scripture-fed and Spirit-led from personal heartbreak and the rituals of Romanism to repentance; from denominational loyalty to a personal trust with the living Jesus for forgiveness and salvation. The by-product was reconciliation, peace and eventually, ministry. This is a moving testimony and an important book."

-J. ERNEST FREQUES,

former priest and author of Reconciliation: Essays and Applications

"A survival kit for the casual churchgoer. It brings to the forefront problems we battle with as parishioners and how to overcome them. It is convincing and practical. I wish I'd had the book twenty years ago."

-TODD OETKEN

financial planner, 46 year old Catholic

"I once was a 'back-seat Joe' type of person when it came to church.

Are you that same kind of person? Do you sense there must be more?

I asked myself that same question and discovered an adventure with Christ."
